DAY 4

DAY 4 - : Tokyo to Kyoto by Shinkansen

SHINKANSEN BULLET TRAIN, KINKAKU-JI TEMPLE, NIJO CASTLE MEALS: BREAKFAST

- After breakfast, transfer to Tokyo Station and board the Shinkansen bullet train to Kyoto.
- Japan's Shinkansen network is known for its speed, efficiency, and punctuality, connecting major cities across the country. The journey to Kyoto takes approximately 2.5 hours.
- Upon arrival, begin the sightseeing in Kyoto, Japan's imperial capital for more than one thousand years. The city is home to numerous temples, shrines, gardens, and UNESCO World Heritage Sites, making it one of the country's most important cultural destinations.

- Visit Kinkaku-ji Temple, also known as the Golden Pavilion. Originally built in 1397 as a retirement villa for Shogun Ashikaga Yoshimitsu, it was later converted into a Zen Buddhist temple. The upper floors are covered in gold leaf and reflect across the surrounding pond, creating one of Kyoto's most recognisable views.

- Continue your exploration of Kyoto with visits to several of the city's most important cultural and religious landmarks.

- Begin at Fushimi Inari Taisha, a Shinto shrine dedicated to Inari, the deity associated with rice, agriculture, and prosperity. The shrine is best known for its thousands of vermilion Senbon Torii gates that form pathways through the wooded slopes of Mount Inari. The site is one of Kyoto's most visited attractions and has become one of Japan's most recognisable landmarks. The full round trip hike to the summit takes two to three hours, but many visitors only walk 30 to 40 minutes to the Yotsutsuji intersection because the number of torii gates decreases beyond that point.
- Next, visit Kiyomizu-dera Temple, a UNESCO World Heritage Site founded in 778 AD. The temple is famous for its large wooden stage overlooking Kyoto and its location on the hillside of eastern Kyoto. From the temple grounds, enjoy views across the city while exploring one of Japan's most important Buddhist sites.
- Continue on foot through Ninenzaka and Sannenzaka, two preserved historic streets lined with traditional wooden buildings, tea houses, cafés, craft shops, and souvenir stores. These streets provide one of the best examples of Kyoto's historic cityscape.
- Visit Yasaka Shrine, one of Kyoto's best known Shinto shrines and the centre of the annual Gion Matsuri Festival.
- The day concludes in the Gion District, Kyoto's traditional geisha quarter. The area is known for its preserved wooden machiya houses, tea houses, and narrow streets that reflect Kyoto's historical character.
- Overnight in Kyoto.

Considered sacred messengers of the gods in Shinto tradition, the deer have become one of Nara's most recognised symbols.
