Package Overview

Highlights

The Tarsar Marsar Kashmir is best done in 7 days with one day as acclimatization at Aru Valley. In 6 days of walking, this trek goes over the varied landscape of Kashmir, making it the best highlight of Kashmir's eternal natural beauty. This trek is best recommended for beginners.

What To Expect?

Alpine Lakes: This trek has 3 beautiful alpine lakes. There is a lakeside camping at Tarsar Lake which is one of the best attractions of this trek. The other two treks you explore on your trail and behold the serenity and beauty of those lakes. Marsar Lake is a massive lake and the sundersar lake is similar to the moon shape.

Lush Meadows: It would be quite right to call this trek a Meadow trek. The trek has beautiful wavy meadows that run parallel to the river streams most of the time. You will walk through these lush meadows thinly populated by shepherds and their flock.

Campsites: The campsites of this trek are relatively bigger than other treks. You will camp in the quietness of nature. On one of the days, you will camp beside Tarsar Lake. You will be camping beside river streams at Lidderwat, Sekiwas, and Homwas.

Beginners' Heaven: There are only a few treks in India that are highly recommended for beginners and at the same time carry such a clean landscape. Tarsar Marsar exposes the bundle of trekking vistas for new hikers. The trek is neither strenuous nor a simple walk-through of woods. But a genuine less strenuous trek. It doesn't have a sharp incline or decline. It has no cliffs, no threatening wildlife, or no maze of jungle where one can lose the way.
